BURMA'S UN COMPLAINT PROMPTED BY PRESSURE FROM PEIPING

Pressure from Communist China and the possibility that Chinese Communist armed forces might enter Burma to fight the Chinese Nationalist troops there prompted Burma's complaint to the UN, according to the military advisor assigned to Burma's UN delegate. He told the American Army Attache in Rangoon that the War Office had enough evidence to prove its case against Taipei and reiterated Burma's desire not to implicate the United States. (S USARMA Rangoon 120, 31 Mar 53)

Comment: Burma's UN delegate has also referred to pressure applied by Communist China and there are indications that such pressure, in part, has been applied through Burma's pro-Communist Ambassador to Peiping, who visited Rangoon recently.
